EAGLESCROFT: service-led content system

LinkedIn · Facebook · X — Abuja to the world

AI is one lane, not the whole show. Every week now covers every service we sell, with one short video and one post every day, plus a Story/Status touchpoint.

1. What we sell (source: eaglescroft.com.ng, mirrored in the brand skill's website kit)

Service	What the site promises	Proof we can show	Content angle
Web Development	Full-stack apps in Next.js, React and Node, built for speed, scale and conversion	Live sites in real estate, construction, e-commerce, healthcare, transport and media	Speed, conversion, "your website is your best salesperson"
UI/UX Design	Research-driven product design in Figma; interfaces that feel effortless and convert	Wireframes → prototypes → shipped screens	Small UX fixes, A/B "which would you use?", before/after
Branding & Identity	Positioning, visual systems and messaging that make businesses unforgettable	Logo, guidelines, brand boards	"Your logo isn't your brand", glow-ups, process reveals
Video & Motion	Cinematic edits, reels and motion graphics that capture attention (Premiere, After Effects)	Our own social videos are the portfolio	Raw vs edited, motion showcases, hook craft
Marketing & SEO	Technical SEO, Core Web Vitals and data-driven campaigns that grow ROI	Rankings, Google Business Profiles, ad set-ups	Myth vs fact, "Google your business", ad checklists
IT & Automation	Reliable hosting, security hardening and AI automation that cut manual overhead, plus chatbots, CRM and funnels	Lead engine, WhatsApp + CRM automations	Before/after workflows, "hours saved", honest AI takes Process: Discover → Design → Build & Launch → Grow & Support.

Official proof points (use as written): 12+ projects · 9+ industries · 6+ countries · 99% client satisfaction.
CTAs: Start a Project · Book a Free Call · View Our Work · Send Enquiry. Reassurance line: `FREE CONSULTATION · REPLY WITHIN 24 HOURS · ABUJA TO THE WORLD`.

Client names: the website shows a portfolio, but social posts describe clients by sector and region (e.g. "a real-estate platform in Abuja", "an e-commerce store in Australia") unless Joshua approves naming that client. Testimonials need the client's OK before we post them.

2. Weekly rotation (one service in focus each day)

Day	Service in focus	Video series	Post type
Mon	UI/UX Design	Spot the Difference (A or B?)	Carousel: UX fixes
Tue	Video & Motion	Raw vs Edited / editing tricks	Carousel: video types and craft
Wed	Marketing & SEO	Myth vs Fact / "Google your business"	Checklist carousel
Thu	IT & Automation (AI, CRM, chatbots)	Workflow Glow-Up (before/after a process)	Flight Report case study
Fri	Web Development	Website Glow-Up + Drop Your Website review	Website checklist / teardown
Sat	Branding & Identity	POV: the client said… (text-heavy skit)	Brand education carousel
Sun	EAGLESCROFT itself	Motion showcase / brand film	How we work, proof, culture

3. The video series (why each one spreads)

Research basis: completion rate drives TikTok distribution, with roughly 15–34s the favoured range; text-heavy and POV clips are outperforming polished ads; recurring series train viewers to come back; most viewing starts with the sound off. (Sources: JetFuel 2026 guide, Pulse on paid formats, iBuildInfluence, viral.app: 3.3M videos.)

Series	Format	Length	Why it spreads	Needs
Glow-Up	Before → after wipe of a website, brand or workflow	15–25s	Transformation payoff at the end keeps people watching to completion	Concept mock-ups (I make them) or approved client work
POV: the client said…	Text on screen over b-roll or a mascot; relatable agency humour with a real lesson	10–20s	Relatable, gets tagged and sent to friends	Stock or desk b-roll
Spot the Difference	Two versions of a screen. "A or B? Comment." Then the reveal	12–20s	Comment bait with a genuine lesson; comments feed reach	Mock-ups (I make them)
Myth vs Fact	Fast cards, one myth busted	15–25s	Saves and shares; positions us as experts	None
Raw vs Edited	Split screen: raw clip vs our edit	15–25s	Shows the craft (the video is the portfolio)	A raw clip + our edit
Drop Your Website	Weekly review of one follower's site (respectful, constructive)	30–45s	Comment engine; every episode invites new submissions	Submissions (starts Fri 13)
Motion showcase	Kinetic type / brand film	10–20s	Pure craft flex; brand recall	Our motion skill

Rules for every video:
- 9:16, with captions burned in.
- Hook text in frame 1.
- No logo intro.
- End card: eagle mark + EAGLESCROFT + one CTA.

- No real people in AI-made realistic scenes.
- Label AI voice or AI visuals where the platform asks.
- Post TikTok → Shorts → Reels → Facebook Reels → LinkedIn → X.
- Use 3–5 hashtags, not more.

Where: EAGLESCROFT is set up on LinkedIn, Facebook and X. The video series also needs Instagram, TikTok and YouTube Shorts for EAGLESCROFT. Recommended: open them with the same handle and bios from `profiles/profile-setup.md`.

4. Stories / WhatsApp Status (daily, 1 minute)

One poll or quiz a day tied to the day's service, plus a reshare of the day's post. Polls are low-effort for followers, and the answers tell us what to make next.

---

5. AI-and-automation bank (one or two a week, not more)

Designed and ready for next week: Brief AI like a new hire (014), 4 reasons businesses haven't automated yet (016), AI agents on WhatsApp and Google (017, re-check the facts before posting).

6. What we measure every Monday

- Per video: 3-second hold, average watch %, shares/sends, comments.
- Per post: saves, shares, profile visits.
- Leads: "Drop your website" submissions, DMs, enquiries from eaglescroft.com.ng.

Double down on the best two series each month.

LinkedIn / Facebook

> 13,000 raw records. 12,000+ scored leads.
>
> A client came to us with a huge prospect list and one problem: nobody could tell who to call first, and every message sounded the same.
>
> So we built a lead engine:
> 1. Clean: removed duplicates, fixed broken fields, filled the gaps
> 2. Score: ranked every lead on how well they fit and how ready they look
> 3. Write: an AI audit engine drafted a tailored opening line for each prospect
>
> The team now starts every day with a ranked list and a personal hook for each call. A human still approves every message. That part stays human.
>
> The lesson: your old list is probably worth more than you think. It just needs a system.

Fri 13: Ground School: "Is your website losing customers? The 7-point check"

Video: EV02 Website Glow-Up + launch of Drop Your Website (we review one site each Friday from 20 Nov).

LinkedIn / Facebook

> Your website might be losing customers quietly. Run this 7-point check today:
>
> 1. Speed: does it load in about 3 seconds on mobile data?
> 2. Mobile: can you read and tap everything without zooming?
> 3. Headline: does a visitor know what you do in 5 seconds?
> 4. One action: is there one obvious next step (call, WhatsApp, book, buy)?
> 5. Contact: is WhatsApp or click-to-call one tap away?
> 6. Google: is your Business Profile complete, with hours, photos and the website link?
> 7. Trust: padlock (HTTPS), real photos and reviews?
>
> Fewer than 6 ticks? That's where your leads are leaking. Save this, or book a free call and we'll go through it with you. Link in the first comment.

LinkedIn / Facebook

> A logo is a signature. A brand is the whole handwriting.
>
> What people actually remember about a business:
> → The colours and type they see everywhere
> → The way you talk, on your website, your WhatsApp and your invoices
> → Whether it all looks and sounds the same every time
>
> That's why a "new logo" rarely fixes a brand. Consistency does. We build brand systems (positioning, visuals, voice and guidelines) so every touchpoint looks like it came from the same business. Is your brand consistent? Tell us the hardest part below.
